

Lloyd College of Health, Science, and Technology
Department of Biological and Forensic Sciences
Lecturer/Assistant Professor of Forensic Science

The Department of Biological and Forensic Sciences at Fayetteville State University invites applications for lecturer or a tenure-track position of Assistant Professor in Forensic Science to begin in August 2025. Responsibilities of the position include teaching courses within our B.S. in Forensic Science program, research, student mentoring, and university and community service. Applicants must have a Masters or Ph.D. in Forensic Science or a closely related field with experience teaching undergraduate courses such as forensic science. (ABD will be considered if award of Ph.D. degree can be expected before start of employment).

Fayetteville State University is a constituent institution of the University of North Carolina and the second oldest public institution of higher education in the state. Founded in 1867 as the Howard School for the education of African Americans, today FSU serves a growing student body of approximately 7,000 and ranks among the nation's most diverse campus communities. The Department of Biological and Forensic Sciences offers B.S. degrees in Biology and Forensic Science with approximately 400 majors.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Please apply at <https://jobs.uncfsu.edu/postings/25273>. Priority will be given to those that apply before March 30, 2025. To learn more about FSU and the Department of Biological and Forensic Sciences, visit <http://tinyurl.com/3kx4z87j>.

Fayetteville State University is committed to equality of educational opportunity and employment and does not discriminate against applicants, students, or employees based on race, color, national origin, religion, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, age, disability, genetic information or veteran status. Moreover, Fayetteville State University values diversity and actively seeks to recruit talented students, faculty, and staff from diverse backgrounds.

This position is subject to the successful completion of an employment background check. An employment background check includes a criminal background check, employment verification, reference checks, license verification (if applicable) and credit history check (if applicable).